

Nota Biográfica

Carolyn Williams

Carolyn Williams is Director of Corporate Relations at the Institute of Risk Management. She is responsible for engaging with potential members, corporate partners, employers and other individuals and organisations to communicate the importance of risk management, competency and professional development and the role of the IRM. In her 9 years at IRM she has also been responsible for technical development and thought leadership projects. Before joining IRM she was Head of Risk Management Training and Communication for Lloyd's of London. Carolyn represents IRM on various bodies including the Advisory Board of Nottingham University's Centre for Risk, Banking and Financial Services. She studied Politics, Philosophy and Economics at Oxford University and is a Chartered Insurance Practitioner and a Member of the IRM.